Today, Dr. Glatt estimates, she is a large C or a small D cup.

Wow!

Nicole's boobs got so big

The Pussycat Doll's cups runneth over every week on Dancing With the Stars

She's been tearing up the stage on Dancing With the Stars, but Nicole Scherzinger's moves aren't the only thing that have the pop singer's fans buzzing — her busty appearance in the show's skimpy costumes has sparked speculation that she's gotten breast implants.

"It looks like Nicole has had breast augmentation surgery," believes Dr. Brian S. Glatt of New Jersey's Premiere Plastic Surgery Center. "She could not achieve so much fullness in her upper chest without implants, given what she had before."

Dr. Glatt also tells In Touch that he thinks the singer's current voluminous look could not have been acquired with just the help of a good push-up bra. "Her breasts are closer together in the middle, and they appear larger in volume overall," he says.

Nicole, 31, has never spoken specifically about having plastic surgery, but she does admit there are parts of her body she is still self-conscious about. "Every woman has insecurities," she says.

But according to Dr. Glatt, Nicole should feel confident about her breasts. "Although you can clearly tell that she has had an augmentation, they're on the larger side of natural without looking too overdone," he tells In Touch.
